

Wyoming Department of Education

Dr. Jim McBride, Superintendent of Public Instruction
Hathaway Building, 2nd Floor, 2300 Capitol Avenue
Cheyenne, WY 82002-0050

Phone 307-777-7673 Fax 307-777-6234 Website www.k12.wy.us

MEMORANDUM NO. 2010-042

TO: School District Superintendents
Wyoming School Principals

FROM: Tim Lockwood
Public Information Officer

DATE: February 26, 2010

SUBJECT: PBS Teachers Innovation Challenge

FOR YOUR INFORMATION

Wyoming Public Television is hosting an innovation challenge for interested teachers. The program recognized teachers for their work and dedication to the profession. In addition, teachers have an opportunity to win a behind-the-scenes trip.

Attached is more information. Please take the opportunity to share this with your teachers.

Attachment

PBS Teachers. Innovation Challenge

Show us how you inspire your students and you could win a behind-the-scenes trip to the premiere annual PBS event!

America's teachers innovate every day.

From math and science to music and the arts, your inventive thinking continuously fuels, inspires and engages young minds.

Whether you teach your students physics with rocket launchers, social studies by re-enacting historical events, or literature by inviting kids to create digital stories, you are innovating and making a difference - and we want to recognize and thank YOU!

PBS and Wyoming PBS invite you to enter the PBS Teachers Innovation Challenge!

How do I enter?

Entry is easy - simply...

- 1 Tell us why you are an innovative educator
- 2 Submit a video clip or a photograph showing us how you inspire your students!

The TEN most innovative teachers will win an EXCLUSIVE, behind-the-scenes trip to the PBS annual meeting in Austin, Texas on May 17-20 to see sneak previews of programs, meet producers and attend premiere events!

WyomingPBS

* For more contest and entry information, go to wyomingpbs.org/education.