Describe event and explain causal relation in narrative poem

Alligator Poem

by Mary Oliver

I knelt down
at the edge of the water, and if the white birds standing in the tops of the trees whistled any warning I didn't understand, I drank up to the very moment it came crashing toward me,
its tail flailing
like a bundle of swords, slashing the grass,
and the inside of its cradle-shaped mouth gaping,
and rimmed with teeth—
and that's how I almost died of foolishness in beautiful Florida.
But I didn't.

I leaped aside, and fell, and it streamed past me, crushing everything in its path as it swept down to the water and threw itself in,
and, in the end,
this isn't a poem about foolishness but about how I rose from the ground and saw the world as if for the second time, the way it really is.

The water, that circle of shattered glass, healed itself with a slow whisper and lay back with the back-lit light of polished steel, and the birds, in the endless waterfalls of the trees, shook open the snowy pleats of their wings, and drifted away while, for a keepsake, and to steady myself, I reached out,
I picked the wild flowers from the grass around me—blue stars
and blood-red trumpets on long green stems—for hours in my trembling hands they glittered like fire.

This test item measures eighth-graders' performance in interpreting a first-person narrative poem.

- Student responses to this question were rated using four scoring levels—Extensive, Essential, Partial, and Unsatisfactory/Incorrect.
