State Board of Education confers accreditation to districts

Cheyenne – The Wyoming Board of Education granted full accreditation status to 36 of 48 Wyoming school districts at its regular board meeting on Thursday. Accreditation with follow-up status was granted for 11 of the remaining school districts and one school district was granted accreditation with deficiencies.

The components of accreditation are monitored and evaluated by the North Central Association Commission on Accreditation and School Improvement (NCA) in cooperation with the Wyoming Department of Education. NCA is an accreditation division of AdvancED.

The areas reviewed in accreditation include Vision and Purpose, Governance and leadership, Teaching and Learning, Document and Using Results, Resources and Support Systems, Stakeholder Communications and Relationships, and Commitment to Continuous Improvement.

There are a total of five levels of accreditation. Those levels are full accreditation, accreditation with follow-up, accreditation with deficiencies, conditional accreditation and non-accreditation.

PRESS RELEASE

In addition, Fremont 38 was granted accreditation with deficiencies.

“The accreditation process has identified challenges that some of the school districts need to focus on. That is the reason the accreditation process is in place,” Bill Anthony, Board of Education Chairman said. “The board is working closely with the Wyoming Department of Education and the identified districts to make sure these issues are resolved.”

All Wyoming schools are required to focus on student performance and improve student achievement through their school improvement plans. Quality contacts are made annually with each school, and accreditation visits are conducted on site using a five-year cycle.

All schools must complete a two-year progress report following the on-site visits on each overall recommendation within their accreditation reports. It is a process which reflects true continuous school improvement as we work with each school throughout the school year, and any necessary changes are made along the way.

“Many of the districts that did not receive full accreditation have been proactive in beginning the process necessary to resolve the concerns identified through the accreditation process,” Wyoming Superintendent of Public Instruction Dr. Jim McBride said. “We will continue to work with the districts through our technical assistance teams and district coaches to assist in any way we can.”

All Wyoming school districts participate in the NCA accreditation process with the exception of Sheridan County School District 1. Sheridan 1 participates in the WDE accreditation process and was visited in 2007-2008.
