SCHOOL SAFETY TRAINING SERIES

The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) is offering a training series entitled Reducing Lead in Schools: A Webinar Series. This series is designed to give school decision makers the tools to identify and mitigate sources of lead in schools. Three webinars will be offered:

- Why is Lead a Concern?
2-3:30 p.m. on March 19.
An overview of the problem, the health effects of lead, and sources of lead in the environment including drinking water, paint, and dust.
- Testing School Drinking Water for Lead
May or June 2019, date TBD.
Case studies from Colorado on testing school drinking water.
- Revised 3Ts
September or October 2019, date TBD.
Recent changes to the EPA's 3T (Training, Testing, and Taking Action) document.
