

Wyoming Department of Education

Cindy Hill, Superintendent of Public Instruction
Hathaway Building, 2nd Floor, 2300 Capitol Avenue
Cheyenne WY 82002-0050

Phone: (307) 777-7675 | Fax: (307) 777-6234 | Website: edu.wyoming.gov

PRESS Release

Local Teacher of the Year, Jason Horn, Receives Accolades

Fremont County School District #2 teacher, Jason Horn, received the district Teacher of the Year award for 2015, according to Superintendent of Public Instruction Cindy Hill. Horn, a teacher for over six years, serves as music teacher at Dubois.

“As a music educator, my teaching philosophy focuses on student success. If I have done my job correctly, students should develop a lifelong passion for music,” says Horn.

Speaking about the teaching profession, Horn comments, “I believe cross-curricular, school-wide projects that involve the community could be a key to strengthening our profession.”

Accountability is a current buzz word in educational circles. Horn addresses this topic: “Accountability in the teaching profession should be centered on student achievement and success. I am not convinced that good scores on standardized tests are a measure of success. Rather success is the ability to become productive, well rounded citizens.”

Horn will receive a crystal apple award from the Wyoming Department of Education.